Chorus:

I watch the sunset falling down
I hear the voices coming through this overcrowded town
And yes, I know that time it flies by so fast
You better find yourself something that lasts

There is just not enough time to hold onto the past
It either makes you bitter or keeps you looking back
But if you need someone to help you in moving on
I have a will to make right what has been goin' wrong
What you need it will be coming around
Yes, I will bring it back somehow

Chorus

If this web could be broken, don't you think I would
But I am just a fly caught in this neighborhood
These streets are cracked and scattered and baked beyond belief
One day I'll shake myself free and step out from the heat
What you need it will be coming around
Yes, I will bring it out somehow

Chorus
