Julie Ann, look what we've done
Worn out our welcomes every one Things didn't get done just 'cause the world knew we were near
And things weren't said 'cause they're what we wanna hear
Ahhh
Oooh

Quick to use up our finest thrills
Quick justice angels at crossed wills Now it's more like we can't say two nice words on the phone
And baby, the trains don't run where we used to go
I guess you oughta know

I used to think of you as someone I'd come crying to
You used to put me in my place
I used to think of you as sun that would come shining through
You had this town's last honest face
Last honest face

Going through people's closet shelves
To see if it's what we hide ourselves Selves...

I used to think of you as someone I'd come crying to
You used to put me in my place
through
You had this town's last honest face
Last honest face
