

Loudon Wainwright Iii

"I Suppose"

Visit "I Suppose" on MotoLyrics.com

I suppose that I could love you,
though my mind tells me : "No way"
It says "Screw it, you've been through it",
it's not worth the price you pay.
Than it reminds me of the last time,
each gorey detail,
it's a drag that tells me : "Bag it"
no, my memory doesn't fail.
And I suppose that I could love you if my heart were still intact
It keeps ticking, but not tricking me,
like it used to, that's a fact.
I have been burned and I have learned to let the muscle do its job.
I let it beat, it's no mean feat,
no..it doesn't need to throb.
I suppose that I could love you
if I wasn't so afraid,
I might go berzerk
if it did work,
and I didn't feel betrayed.
I have writing about love for so long now,
that's all I know to do but if it's real this thing we feel,
well, then yes, I could love you...

Visit Loudon Wainwright Iii page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.