You've got my senses on the run
Itching for your touch
And aching when you're gone
I feel so restless on my own
But long before I met you
I never knew I was alone
When you're gone it seems so long
Is this the shape of things to come?
You're like sun against my skin
My affliction, sweet addiction
You can't have fun without the friction
I feel I want to tell the world
That you are mine and I am yours
But sometimes I guess I'm not so sure
And I don't care anymore
Steal my heart away
I want to be with you
Steal my heart away

Steal my heart away
To your kingdom I come
There is nowhere to run
Is this the shape of things to come?
I lie awake and dream
I've far too many secret to keep
And I just want to go to sleep
My friends warn me to take care
But you appear and sense prevails
I don't believe in fairy tales
I believe in you
Steal my heart away
I want to be with you
Steal my heart away
Steal my heart away
To your kingdom I come
There is nowhere to run
Is this the shape of things to come?
