Breaking Branches

Been there before, such a small dark place

Softly speaking, try to set the pace

Repeat yourself, you're so satisfied, but we're far from satisfied

You cast your spell of intoxication

Sadly we fell, desperate temptation

Oh we've heard the truth lonely victim, oh we've heard the truth

We're hanging high from the branches on the tree where we complied

We're hanging high now we're promising goodbye

Gently swaying on display, show us off some other day

'Cause we're breaking branches tonight

He took her hand, led her to the dark place

She held you close, you pushed her away

Her confidence is so shot to hell

All those walks up the icy stairwell to rescue him from himself

All those walks on the coldest evenings just to be placed upon the shelf

We're not letting go through the undertow

Oh we were waiting for the day to break free
