You're talking to yourself, there's nobody home
And you know you're alone, you know you're alone
You did this to yourself, you're not innocent
We remember the day you said things that you meant

Don't try to fix all the things you see
'Cause I won't be here when you need me
So take a breath tonight

Just like your window I am shattered again
I don't care what you heard, I don't care what was said
So get your fix; you're struggling to survive
These conversations, they're keeping me alive

Don't try to fix all the things you see
'Cause I won't be here when you need me
So take a breath tonight
I promise you'll be pleased with the outcome
I can't be here like this

These eyes, they stare, they stare deep in me and I still hear your voice
These eyes, they stare, they stare deep in me I still
hear your voice
Don't try to be, just give up on me, 'cause I still hate the sound

Don't try to fix all the things you see
'Cause I won't be here when you need me
So take a breath tonight
I promise you'll be pleased with the outcome
I can't be here like this
