I'd say we're drowning in the river,
and we are trying to cope, They're unleashing all the demons, guess we don't see any hope,
The love and the strength we used to share,
And all the tears of joy has gone away,
All the way, all the way...

We must have lost the faith to live with passion,
No tears can turn the time around,
Take a profound thinking about it,
They saw the love and put it all the way,
I'd say we're drowning in the river,
And we're trying to cope,
All the time, all the time...

Cause they'll unleash the beast,
the prophecy of all demented minds, They'd grasp the hatred forsaking
the legacy of all human kind, They'd take away the love
to be sure there's nothing,
well nothing that's left behind,

Revealing all the lies,
the truth we will not find,
None to be precise, to be precise.

Can't stop right now cause it hurts...

It's impossible, for us to live, it's possible, for us to be living in disguise,
And picking up the pieces of one in a million,
Put it all together now, puzzle of our lives,
Making the decision, nothing ever makes it right.

Cause they'll unleash the beast,
the prophecy of all demented minds,
They'd grasp the hatred forsaking
the legacy of all human kind,
They'd take away the love
to be sure there's nothing,

well nothing that's left behind,
Revealing all the lies,
the truth we will not find,
None to be precise, to be precise.
