There's a million reasons why,
I can't stand the sight of you tonight,
I had your chance and then you stole mine,
My heart got ripped open but you're still breathing fine.
And I won't sleep tonight.

Come back again to me,
Use your same lines to make me believe,
There's a lot of fish out in the sea,
But you're the only one that's right for me.

And when the world has turned on me,
Will you stand there by my side
Or will you run and hide your face
(you're crashed and out of life,
Burning up inside,
I'm just scared to fly,
So won't you drive me home with you tonight).

Waiting so patiently,
Prescriptions an open-heart surgery,
That's what I'm needing.

And when the world has turned on me,
Will you stand there by my side
Or will you run and hide your face
(you're crashed and out of life,
Burning up inside,
I'm just scared to fly,
So won't you drive me home with you tonight).
