Never thought I'd find you but you were right here all along

I hold onto this moment now, now before it's gone
And it feels like treading water, I'm as weak as I am blind

I think I'm going under now and there's not much time

But you can't know my hurt to know what it feels like
When you want something you know that you can't find
it

I'm way down under water 'cause it feels like drowning
Is there more than this life?

Way down going under and I'm falling harder
I might break for you

A thousand questions now echo in my head
You don't think I heard you but I heard every word you said

And I was wrong to wait so long, so maybe from now on I'll just take my chances before they're gone

But you can't know my hurt to know what it feels like
When you want something you know that you can't find
it

I'm way down under water 'cause it feels like drowning
Is there more than this life?

Way down going under and I'm falling harder
I might break for you

When it feels like there's more than this life Wanting something you can't find

I never thought I'd find you but you were right here all along

I'm as weak as I am blind

Way down under water 'cause it feels like drowning
Is there more than this life?

Way down going under and I'm falling harder
I might break for you, you know

Way down under water 'cause it feels like drowning
Is there more than this life?
I'm way down going under and I'm falling harder
I might break for you
