You hang around and walk
As I take a drag from the cloud I'm shaking
Now, I don't care how I hurt myself today
All my bones are breaking anyway
Sister, it's alright

Learn to love the ways you are
Beautiful and broken heart
If perfect wounds won't leave a scar then Everything will

I awake as I wait for you, all alone
I'm thinking that time is what I use
While my bones are sinking
With the rocks I've glued to them
Oh brother, it's alright

Learn to burn the ways you are Falling down and dreaming hard

If broken bones are perfect flaws, then
Everything will, everything will
Everything will be alright

Jump with me on a ride castling
And soon you'll be on your own out to see
Oh, choose or lose, where the life has meaning
And you will see there is life underneath

Everything, come on, come on now
Everything, come on, come on now
Everything that's broken will be alright

Everything, come on, come on now
Everything, come on, come on now
Everything that's broken will be alright
