I spend a lot of time
Pondering every sign
Building up chemistry between you and me

Imagine if harmony
Could happen mutually
Why does it have to be so difficult?

It might be you're just too kind
It might be that you don't mind me
It might be I'm just too blind
But I think it's more
And you're yet to show me any sign
That you don't feel it too

If you are on the fence
And you share your love in jest
Don't be convinced
It means nothing to me

A squeeze from you shoots through my limbs
And I feel my energy growing
I lay my head on your shoulder because you know

It might be you're just too kind
It might be that you don't mind me
It might be I'm just too blind
But I think it's more
And you're yet to show me any sign
Do you realize the weight I hold under (?) your signs
And I think you do when you're in your room
And you're wondering just who you will choose
