Why don't you call me your baby anymore
Am I so changed from some strange love from before
Is this the change of mind that I've been designed for
Why not your baby anymore

She wore a blue dress when she walked in the room
And in her eyes the look I saw was filled with gloom
Is this the question I would answer all too soon
Come tell your friend what's wrong with you

Why don't you call me your baby anymore
Am I so changed from some strange love from before
Is this the change of mind that I've been designed for
Why not your baby anymore

Those words we spoke on that seem to block our way
The truth rang out when you called me, called my name
And I don't know what I can do or I can say
Your good friends will find a way

Why don't you call me your baby anymore
Am I so changed from some strange love from before
Is this your change of mind that I've been waiting for Why not your baby, why not your baby
Why not your baby anymore
