Won't let a moment pass me by lighting candles in the wind some of us can't win but you know i'll get mine so make a stand before you fall this time we're going all the way

So you're feeling over the hill like time has past you by it's caught up in your mind like the final count down so listen to your heart this time we're going all the way

You say life is a game we play so many people, places, things and we change just role the dice, let them fall where they may living for tomorrow not today

So you're thinking what went wrong while you're starring at the sun some of it's been fun but has it all been worth while so get in my car, let's drive we're leaving california
