"Set A Fire"

The first time I saw you there
I told myself I would not talk to you
What else can I do?
Its a stupid game and now that i can understand the true romances are more than just a fad
They play it in a band and you mean so much to me

You set a fire inside me
You knock me to the ground
So now im getting up
Your nowhere to be found

Each day just passes by but time stands still since you left my life
And all the pictures that I see reminds me how we use to laugh, joke around, ditching class with nowhere to be found
And all that's a memory
But it means so much to me

You set a fire inside me
You knock me to the ground
So now im getting up
Your nowhere to be found
