You were sitting by yourself
When I came to say hello
Loading up on cigarettes
And drinks before the show

By the time you hit the stage
You were tearing at the seams
I could have told you you'd had enough
But you weren't listening

Chorus
Every single day
Take's a piece of you away

Every single day

When you grabbed the brass ring
You hid it deep inside
You didn't know it's not yours to keep
It's just not that kind of ride

You heard them laughing at you
But it was just a falling star
So you threw the face you'd pasted on
At those bodies in the dark

Chorus

I can still remember you
When you were back lit from inside
And I would stand there next to you
The bridesmaid to the bride
Later on my radio
Man said envy it's a sin
I could have told him save his breath
Cause I'm not listening

Chorus
