Winter leaves fall behind us
Towards the ice we let grow
Between you and me
I feel your words pressing my chest
Lying down on my silhouette

Same mistakes, same crooked says
This won't last forever
Walking around the same place
I've torn myself into this shape

Mistakes you know that hurt so much
Are always circling over skies
I reach your hand as you reach for mine
The gap collapses even more as we both
Try to get closer

I want to hear the words again
Coming through your lips
Running through my dreams
Distance is as healing as painful

Try to get so close
Try to build some hope
Shivers crawl and curl
I strive to see the colors
But it's all black and blue
My mirror is you
