The Day The Falcon Dies

100 years we are bound on this spell
Lovers separated in a cruel way
What did we do to deserve such a fate?
Somebody free us before it's too late

I am the falcon and you are the wolf
Never human shape at the same time
Each dawn some minutes is all that remains
I fear the daylight

With the first sunshine I spread my wings

Watching over you and every step you take
At night I can't sleep, I know you are near
Listen to your howling, my eyes filled with tears

I am the falcon and you are the wolf
Never human shape at the same time
Each dawn some minutes is all that remains
I fear the daylight

The day the falcon dies I will be free
