He wants to take her picture, but she looks away
Caught up in insecurities that get in the way
She knows he can see straight through her and she's scared
He wishes she knew he liked all he saw cause he cares
How can it be that she's so afraid?
Don't be afraid
It's just you and me
No one can see the way you look at me
And if they could they'd say
It's beautiful
He turns the music up and they play along
Duet of opposite instruments, it's his favorite song
How can it be that she's so afraid?
Don't be afraid
It's just you and me
No one can hear the music that we're making
And if they could they'd say
It's beautiful
Connected by all things intangible, hear the sound
Slowly becoming comfortable with what they've found
How can it be?
