For years she didn't have a name
She needs me to give it back to her
Neither does she have a face
But I feel as though I know her well
She's younger than me, but buried so deep
What is she doin' in my dream?
She waits for me to solve her mystery
But how could I guess her name?

The distance between us fills the air
And I don't remember
She sheds a tear - it fills the air
But I don't remember
I hear her voice - it fills the air
But I can't remember her name
I don't remember her name

Breath of a dirty kid, bones of glass
She's keeping mum - her belly full of hate
Consciously hiding from her past
I can't leave her to her fate

I'm the one to help
She's bleeding - giving me the feeling

Hat it's my duty to dry her blood away
How can I guess her name?

A heart covered by footprints and scars
It's insane
I can't believe what she's showin' me
Who's the one to blame?
Oh those memories
Repression is a way to survive
Suddenly I remember her name
But I shudder to return it
I don't wanna share it..

I don't wanna share
It's mine
No, I don't wanna share it

It's mine
I don't wanna share
It's mine
No, I don't wanna share it

Now I remember her name
Now I remember
And I try... to forget again
