I'm well aware how these circumstances
Can make the human flesh feel like a fire.
We worry so much,
Sometimes I worry myself worthless
And nothing seems to stay inside the confines of my hand
All these things come from different places

Why are we so simply persuaded by this?
I surrender, hold me now
This is where I get to be the fool again
So much for the confidence that would shadow this defense

Sometimes we feel most cities
When we don't even know the way in which we came
All these things come from different places

Why are we so tempted to believe in this?
I surrender, hold me now
This is where I get to be the fool again
So much for the confidence that would shadow this
defense
Tangled here and bound to never walk again
I feel safe at last
Save at last.

You agree we had enough
Certain things can make you run back into fire
The heat between our skin is convincing me
This is all I need for now

This is where I get to be the fool again
So much for the confidence that would shadow this
defense
Tangled here and bound to never walk again
I feel safe at last
I feel safe at last
I feel safe at last
