i am so tired, please just take me away just let me lay down here for awhile, again open my eyes to the bright morning sun hoplessly stare, she is with me again why does she come and why does she care so much for me
she reaches out to me, she whispers so sweetly "come to me, be with me, sink with me, die with me" Sorrow is her name and she's mine her hands reach out to me, her words bore deep in me "i'm so alone, please won't you come and be with me" Sorrow is her name and she's mine, and i... breathe in this air, so humid and dark this doesn't takes me in again and again reach out my hands to the dark desert sky fall to my knees she is with me again and then for awhile her "night time" prevails in me again
she grips and pulls at me, she sinks her teeth in me
"you're not alone as long as you sink deep with me" Sorrow is her name and she's mine naked in front of me, lust gets the best of me

"loneliness adds to our beauty and our decay" Sorrow is her name and she's mine and she's mine
the top of the world is so endless and stark there's ice in my eyes and ice in my heart the desert slowly fades into cold, restless days for awhile in me the summer seems long on this hot humid day salvation tonight if she fades in the rain but tonight i will stay as she creeps in the rain and seeps through me she sinks her tongue in me, "i will not ever leave" she sings a song that's so sweet (but in disarray)
Sorrow is her name and she's mine
"slip through this open door, come in an never leave" she smiles for me and says "i'm all you'll ever need" Sorrow is her name and she's mine and she's mine!
i will never leave her again
..will never leave her again
