The night before the moon died
The world flashed before my eyes
The sun burned out, the sky came down
The less you say, the more I drown

You couldn't wait to be alone
You couldn't wait to be alone
But don't try to blame me
If I could change your mind
I would do anything
If I could change your mind
I would do anything

So wash your face with gasoline
Break the chains and cut it clean
Learn to breathe before you drown
You hold the hand that holds you down

You couldn't wait to be alone
You couldn't wait to be alone
But don't try to blame me
If I could change your mind
I would do anything
If I could change your mind
I would do anything

If I could change your mind

I would do anything
If I could change your mind
I would do anything

I'll find someone new
Someone like you
Find Someone New
Someday
