Take your silly words and listen to yourself, cause I'm living my life tonight and nothing's gonna hurt me, can't you understand that I can be myself without everything, without anything,
without any help from you, we're not having fun, we never really laughed, we have to get things before we end ourself.

What about me? Do you care enough to see that I can't live my life this way and that you don't understand?
What about me? Am I the one who's going down, cause sometimes
I can't find myself and I'm wondering if this is really me?

I remember those days when we first met, how simple things were then, with no heartache and no pain now things change so fast that we must take the time to talk things over and listen to our minds.
