You say you're all alone, and after all the changes you've been through today
You can use a little tenderness, right now OK, I've been alone, and I can understand the way you feel tonight
Maybe together we can change it all right now
I can tell by the look in your tear-filled eyes
You need somebody you can hold onto
If you really want to, I'd love to hold you If you really want to, then I'd love to be the body that you hold onto
You say, he broke your heart, he left you crying, but he did not set you free
And now you feel like you can never love again OK, so let me know, it's up to you how long you let his memory stay
And do you really wanna carry on this way
I can tell by the look in your tear-filled eyes
You need somebody you can hold onto
If you really want to, I'd love to hold you
If you really want to, then I'd love to be the body that
you hold onto
If you really want to, if you really want to, then I really can't deny you
So many things you need to know, so many left to say But you mean more than words I know, I can help you chase the pain away (Solo)
I can tell by the look in your tear-filled eyes
You need somebody you can hold onto
If you really want to, if you really want to
you hold onto
If you really want to, if you really want to, then I really
can't deny you
If you really want to, if you really want to
If you really want to... (to fade)
