Look into the mirror at night
What do you see?
Is it you or just a pale shadow shaped by our sick society?
Where "right" means wrong and "yes" means "no" Where people make up lies in order to please their friends
Instead of getting the wrong ones out of their lives

Are you still listening to me at all?
Your eyes just tell me "yes" and "no"
However, it's good to have you here by my side I'm strong enough to say those things I kept in my heart for so long Waiting for you to free me and get them with you out of my life

So just run, just hide But keep the mask and the colours you need to paint a tear or a smile on your pale face what ever you like Cause you'll never be the one Who wakes up in the morning Wondering why in those dreams when you liked it so much In the past as a child you playd with toys (and) not with hearts

Do you remember the time when you were young (timeless surrender)?
Your mind was free with no need to justify Everything you did before the whole word (whole world)
Doesn't it make you sad, make you think Why you are not the one you used to be (no, no, no)?
of course I know it too, that we didn't stay the same that there are changes in our lives
But there's a force
And it doesn't allow you to be yourself
See through walls, go behind....

Behind the surface is where I want to go Oh you'll never know why I'm really trying so hard to live those things that meant life to me
Behind the surface is where I want to go But you'll never know, but you'll never ever know, never ever know
