[bun b]

the people think it's all about the fame and the money and the status and the game but it's deeper than all that

[mac miller]

they just want the women and the cars getting high so they can chill with some stars

they thinking that it's all about the shows and the chains hanging down on your clothes

we're here to change the world with this thing called rap homie, believe me, it's all that

[verse 1 - bun b]

i got that money on my mind, the grind and the ability, the knowledge and the know-how stamina and agility soon as i step in the facility these haters start testing my civility, i'm telling you they killing me. some of them feeling me and some of them be grilling me but i just blow my kush smoke up to the ceiling g yeah, and take a toke of the swisher smoke they got the paint and the brush, but not the picture, loc what is an emcee if he can't rap? just a monkey with a mic just waiting to get slapped what is a dj if he can't scratch? the one rotten apple that's spoling the whole bag what is a b-boy if he can't break? might as well do the dougie or even the harlem shake and what is a graffiti artist if he don't tag? no homophobia, but he's a fag cause it's deeper than all that..

[verse 2 - mac miller]

one time for the world cause we do it for y'all that logo light up in the sky when the studio call moving the crowd, get em loud without a gimmick spit with a golden ticket, i'm whipping it up in minutes my feet up in this game you haven't even made a divit don't worry about the critics if it's happening now, forget it for my heart is where i give it stay thinking about the future when i'm rich, i'mma call my mom before i call the movers these haters are just losers hate to see you winning gave my art from the beginning i'm in it for extra innings here to change the world like a change clothes wouldn't mind a little bankroll, pesos but i'm right here for way more what is somebody if they can't love? a hater.. someone give em a hug we here to change the world with this thing called rap homie, believing is all that..
