Mum said no to Disneyland
And Dad loves Church
Hallelujah

And when the boys chew Lego
So now we can't build castles for robots
'Cause the pieces don't fit together

And cross the road but hold my hands
Look left and look right
Cross the road but hold my hands

And we'll hold on
And we'll hold

Only one where once stood four
And closer to the kitchen floor
The family favorite

Today we learnt
To scream, "Are we there yet?"
Doesn't get you there any faster

And cross the road but hold a hand
Look left, look right
Cross the road to hold my hand

And we'll hold on
And we'll hold on

Crossed the road and said goodbye
Crossed the road there wasn't a dry eye

Crossed the road you said goodbye
There wasn't a dry eye there wasn't a dry eye

You crossed the road, you said goodbye
There [Incomprehensible] die
