"Get Back In The Car"

so the man was tired and the car was starved and the sun was setting no the moon was tired and the cow was carved i remember every second forget what you don't know yet

forget what you don't know yet
yes i saw the way you talk to your cell phone

forget what you don't know yet then i thought about the man with the shotgun so the man took a shotgun out of the trunk waited on the hood with the headlights on radio was playing christmas songs later on he thought he saw something realized he never saw anything now he drives with his headlights off

forget what you don't know yet yeah i saw the way you climbed out the window

forget what you don't know yet and now you never answer your cell phone
