*took the flower back
his wayward love had been mislead
the sun is dying
apologies she can't accept check the window quick
blue and red of day to purple night and absent light to disarray
apologies she won't accept
a candle marks her tears the flame will fade she'll greet the dawn in disarray she steps into the stream the level rising
took the flower back
his wayward love had been misled the level's rising steps into the stream we're so misled she'll watch the pain the level's rising blue and reds of day to purple night
