"Teeth Vs. Curb"

Another fairytale about these endless feelings.

This time I thought you were worth it but you proved me wrong, yeah you proved me wrong again and all these words that we lost doesn't mean a thing to me now.

Fixated stares in your direction burn my eyes.

Your veins carry cyanide, while mu veinds carry rust.

Your heart bleeds black while mine pumps dust.

And I still remeber the last kiss

These lips still ache and seeing you less is too much too take

For today I learned my lesson now

This time, I hold my emotions all back and hide them in my secret place and I swear: There's no "Forever"! Like a tidalwave knocking me down this feels like teeth against curb.
