long ago, was it really just a woman's sin we still don't know, did we have help to stand upright perhaps we someone's higher expectations evolving up from tiny snails maybe a little gene manipulation - we don't know [3d time - 'now we know'] faster - science is our master applied research, breakthrough coming prototype model on the floor against the control group you were tested your scores were always lower than mine before you and i still might try to find our past - so closely together tied thrid generation product - hybrids incomplete you're perfection - i can't compete history shows, with lessons learned we still cannot win the seed we've sown, it's come back to seal our fate why don't they do their own procreation it's worked well for many years wasting our money on their simulation - when will they know we must respect improvements on the past science must also be tamed make it work for us, not we for it
