It's like taking your medicine
Admitting the relevance of every experience
You're thanking the elements in all their appearances Isn't life just the clearest when
You face interferences with an aim for fearlessness?

With eyes wide open it can be so hard
To live in this world today
But if you close them you just might miss out
And life will pass you by

'Cause you know the things will never change
Your life will always stay the same
You know the things will never change
Your life will always stay the same

Eyes open, eyes shut
Eyes open, eyes shut
Eyes open, eyes shut
Eyes open, eyes shut

I need some memory loss, tell me what's that gonna cost?
If it has to do with attitude, I'll pack up and get lost
I'm having second thoughts on going through with this I should say screw this shit, close my eyes and get used to it

With eyes wide open it can be so hard
To live in this world today
But if you close them you just might miss out
And life will pass you by

'Cause you know the things will never change
Your life will always stay the same
You know the things will never change
You know that

Unchanged, don't waste your life away
Unchanged, don't waste your life away

Blankness with an over anxiousness

To erase this you must be courageous
Just to face what gives you knots in your stomach
And once you've done it, you're gonna love it
Getting up there and being above it

With eyes wide open it can be so hard
To live in this world today
But if you close them you just might miss out
And life will pass you by

'Cause you know the things will never change
Your life will always stay the same
You know the things will never change
You know that

You know the things will never change
You know the life will stay the same
You know the things will never change
You know that
