Sober I can speak without sense,
Drunk I'm a poet as well as a killer
I know you're so merciless
To do everything without remorse.

I can create, I can destroy, so I can't love I can't love you,
I decide if you will die if you will breathe tonight.

And your heart will beat so you can stand right here
So you can see me where you never saw me
Never saw me, never saw me.

The dead smell of a rose, the essence of a heartless woman
You took my soul and you broke it as you wished
This... novel about life.

Screaming like I did
For the things I've done
To never make the same mistake twice or more, twice or more.

Screaming like I did
Dying for everything
The world is coming down, on my shoulders, shoulders.

Cleaning the surface of my life, forgetting old times
I've forgot how to die but never how to make you die

Cleaning the surface of my life, forgetting old times
I've forgot how to die but never how to make you die

This spark, can make all explode
This spark, can make all explode

Our sick game
My sick game
This spark, can make all explode

This is the last time for our games

This spark, can make all explode.

I don't want to feel more pain.
(Dying as well, too late for me again)

Cleaning the surface of my life, forgetting old times
I've forgot how to die but never how to make you die.

Cleaning the surface of my life, forgetting old times
I've forgot how to die but never how to make you die.

This spark, can make all explode
And bring all this to an end.
