She wraps her tragic moments tightly around her neck
And she hangs herself with them as I try to disconnect
And she wants to choke on her life again
Breathing it in like a deadly poison

She cries 'cause she's lost
And she doesn't even know what she wants
And her eyes grow cold
And she begs the world to just let her go
But I won't let go

She lives and breathes in a world that brought her to her knees
And now I'm addicted to her 'cause that girl is just like me
And I'm gonna choke on her life again
Breathing it in like a deadly poison
I just want to get through to her before her last breath

She cries 'cause she's lost
And she doesn't even know what she wants
And her eyes grow cold
And she begs the world to just let her go

She cries 'cause she's lost
And she doesn't even know what she wants
And she hides all alone
Inside the pain that she won't let go

Watching her life pass her by Watching it all through her watering eyes
But I'll be chasing dragonflies
From her darkest skies until the day she dies
