You sacrifice it all for a little bit of fame.
The spotlight fills you up like a black tar heroin.
Under the burning lights, when the crystal lens' fade away.
Back in your real life again, where your dull and unknown again.

When they take it all, take it all away.
They better take me, better take me too.
'Cuz I won't fall, I won't fall again.
Better take me, better take me too.
I'd fight forever to be remembered by you.

Once you've had it all, you can forget who you are.
When your reality surpasses all your wildest dreams.
And you've got nothing else
But to be just yourself on your own.

When they take it all, take it all away.
They better take me, better take me too.
'Cuz I won't fall, I won't fall again.
Better take me, better take me too.
I'd fight forever to be remembered by you.

Like a black tar heroin, comes to ease the pain when you forget what goes
Down will rise again.
When you find your heroine, she will take you in and then you'll know it's
Never over, if you never surrender.

When they take it all, take it all away.
They better take me, better take me too.
'Cuz I won't fall, I won't fall again.
Better take me, better take me too.
I'd fight forever to be remembered by you.
By you.
