(Don't close your eyes)
'Cause we're waiting for the sun to rise
Two days away from home
All alone
'Cause we've driven this far just to see the stars
That we couldn't see from New Jersey streets
So let's wait
Let's just wait

(The patience builds as time rolls by)
If it's a game you're playing can't you see I'm losing fast
(Where do we go from here)
Sit back, relax, and listen to the things I must confess
What will you do when the girl you once knew suddenly means everything to you

Just lose yourself tonight
Get lost in the shades of her eyes
One time 'til i get off the line
One more time
'Cause I've seen this label so many times that I Couldn't believe what you said that night
And I'll say
Yeah you'll see

(The patience builds as time rolls by)
If it's a game you're playing can't you see I'm losing
(Where do we go from here)
Sit back, relax, and listen to the things I must confess
(She turns to him and says)
If it's a game you're playing can't you see I'm losing
fast
(What's so great about you)
He's broken your heart once and this time around it won't fix
What will you do when the girl you once knew suddenly
means everything to you
How will you speak when she goes away
You'll choke on every word you'll say
