I spy shuffling my way The Hunchback of Torriano
Dipping in and out of unzipped places
While I'm witness to them shell shocked faces
Now you're losing everything that meant anything
For a quick return
But this time I've had enough
I'm blowing you out and I'm moving on up

I guess you'll always be
Like a long lost friend to me
Oh I guess you'll always be
The younger brother that was never to be

Well since she tries to burn the spoon
I don't have time nor neither the room
So this time no I can't bail you out
You've exhausted all the fun and confirmed my doubt

I guess you'll always be
Like a long lost friend to me
Oh I guess you'll always be
The other novel that was never to be

But you'd always take the joke too far
Giving it the biggun with your punch drunk joke
And your big cigar (your big cigar)

(Cry with my weary eyes at the withdrawn faces Scuttling around carrying a paint pot like the defenceless)

But I guess you'll always be
Like a long lost friend to me
Oh I guess you'll always be
The younger brother that was never to be

But you'd always take the joke too far
