Your memory is dead, redemption is upset
The ocean is in tears I can't cross your ears

Opening this book of mystery
You! Open into life and come to me
Once upon a time the old man told me
Will for fantasy not for glory

Song for my grandma, and for those who stay in jail
with no judgment
Song for you all, song for you all

I don't need an answer you ain't got it

You wouldn't understand how things turned here
All I need, why don't wondering?
Let's admit fears, you'll get peace

Song for my grandma, and for those who stay in jail
with no judgment

And pain invading all the places in the world and we ignore
And pain invading all the places in the world and we
ignore
We ignore, we ignore, we ignore, we ignore
I won't claim for whispers I'll shout them in front
We ignore, we ignore, we ignore, we ignore
Song for my grandma, song for you all.
