For someone to drop that bomb Somebody else must do research for to enable the design of such deadly bombs Somebody else must invest in manufacturing all those dirty fucking stinking bombs Somebody else must obey without question the instructions to construct that dirty bomb Somebody else must transport it, take the bomb from,
from the factory to the market place Somebody else must engender filthy attitudes which make making bombs acceptable Somebody else must go to work to, to pay income tax so that governments can afford to buy bombs Somebody else, could it be you, think about what you do and for who
do and to whom Give and take, give up your job, take some time today
Because the world needs you
