Well it was last October, on a Tuesday night.
And she said you and me are over, if you're getting high tonight.
But he runs straight down the white line, to let a good thing down.
It wasn't driving her crazy, it drove her right outta town.

There's a million miles to go to where happiness lives.
Ya there's a million miles to go to where happiness
lives.
(Where happiness lives)

He put his mind in detention and let his heart decide.
Try and catch your attention, he's got to catch your eye.
And use the last of the powder, that let's him push ahead.
Move at the speed of lightenin' and leave the miles for dead.

There's a million miles to go to where happiness lives.
And there's a million miles to go to where happiness
lives.
There's a million miles to go to where happiness lives.
There's a million miles...still to go.
(Where happiness lives.)
