Walking in with open eyes
Fingers crossed, throw the dice
Not enough room in here for compromise
Turning water into wine, or turning sober and left behind
One chance, out of my hands, and it all starts making sense

I'm gonna do this like I know what I'm doing
I'm gonna do this my own way
'Cause I don't know what I'm supposed to believe in
Might as well believe in me

I don't need to see the light
I just want to get this right
Cool, calm, not alarmed, and not uptight
'Cause I'll remember to forget whatever it is I won't get I'm already a junkyard of ends that never ever met

I'm gonna do this like I know what I'm ding
I'm gonna do this my own way
'Cause I don't know what I'm supposed to believe in
Might as well believe in me

'Cause I know on my part,
There's no one else to blame
So when those hummingbirds start singing out my name
I'm due to pay my dues, I've nothing I can lose

I'm gonna do this like I know what I'm ding
I'm gonna do this my own way
'Cause I don't know what I'm supposed to believe in
Might as well believe in me
