Have I told you 'bout the case
If the man who had no face? I'm sure I have
His wife suspected something
That's why she brought me in

We arranged to meet one night
At a bar called Aphrodite's on second street
But when I looked into her eyes
I very quickly realized, the danger

The price was right, a deal was struck
I don't think that she gave it a thought

It was plain to see
That the lady was loveblind
It was clear to see
It was clear that she was loveblind

Out into the foggy night
Into the city's blurry light, I drove alone
I wondered then what kind of place
Would make a man lose face

I pieced together clue by clue
Just what a faceless man would do, it wasn't hard
Who would he love, where would he go
Places faceless men would know, on second street

I was close, I was near
But that woman just wouldn't hear

It was plain to see
That the lady was loveblind, loveblind
It was clear to see
It was clear that she was loveblind, loveblind

Loveblind

Next morning came as mornings do
I had a shave it was close too, a close shave
In the mirror, in my space
There was a man without a face

I rang my client and I banged on her door
I told her it was me that we was looking for

It was plain to see
That the lady was loveblind, loveblind
It was clear to see
It was clear that she was loveblind, loveblind

Loveblind
Loveblind
Loveblind
