

Church "The Feast"

Visit "The Feast" on MotoLyrics.com

There were many guests at the table
Misfortune, jealousy, and sloth
Acting fine, drink the wine
Spill it on the tablecloth
What a surprise for you to come home to Look through the eyes that you've grown used to It's impossible, yes I know
It's too tempting too, I admit
It's unforgivable, but I have nothing to lose
Then when the feast was over
The guests withdrew to the fire
Talking proud, laughing out loud
To pretend, deceive and admire
Rats danced on the Persian rug

The cats fell down drunk in the chair
They reverted again to women and men
If only you had been there

This was done by ear, so it may not be completely accurate. Additions and/or corrections are welcome.
This and other Church album lyrics brought to you by Paul Webb pmwebb@cats.ucsc.edu

Visit Church page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.