you used to say i had what it takes i think i did if you meant too little too late i can tell by the looks that i'm gettin' i made some big mistakes and i thought you said i was great shoot straight and give it my best try i made my heart as hard as nails that may be the way you live your life but it's almost got me killed darling i'm not giving in that happened miles ago i heard the north star saying kid you're so lost even i can't bring you home did you think that we were going to last honey you know you don't have to answer that half of that was my kind of joke i don't remember which half i didn't know how blue i'd get i didn't know how i'd get blamed for it i didn't choose to go down this road no one chooses to be sick i'm saying everything is fine by the look in my eye but you know darling half of what a man says is a lie it's your last chance to forget me now that it's done for good you always said i'd make it out somehow darling i knew i never would
