Here we go through the wide open spaces oh cold winds blow sands of time in our faces beggars plead with others greed in high places oh love is won love is lost leaves no traces take your eyes across the seas past the mountains oh do you hear through it's far someones counting people write armies fight children shouting oh love is warm love is real love's abounding who holds the answer to the universe
who holds the answer to the universe
eagles fly past the sun to the rainbow yes they decide where they're from where they can go but no one cries someone hides in the shadows oh love is kind love is yours love is mellow
who holds the answer to the universe
