Well, did you ever look 'round
And get the feelin' you're fallin'
And then you're hearin' a sound of a name
That somebody's callin'
Well, hey, people
Now don't you think that I'm stallin'
Well, there's man at the backdoor
He's waitin' for you to allow it
And he'll be comin' inside
No use for you to try and block it, hey

On occasion you'll find
You're in a sweat and you don't know why
And it's naggin' your mind
You get the feelin' like you might cry
Well, cool it, people
No need to feel like you might die
It's just the man at your backdoor
He's tryin' to get into your head
And he'll be patiently waitin'
Waitin' around 'til you're dead
Oh, yeah, yeah
Talkin' 'bout a man that's as cold as ice, yeah
He got candy in his hand but daggers in his eyes, yeah
Well, his feelin' is cool, oh, his voice chills to the bone, yeah
He'll try makin' a move so be careful when you meet him alone, hey

Oh, some mornin' you'll see
Just what I been talkin' 'bout
And you'll believe you are free
Because you think you've got it all figured out
Well, good Lord, people
Call to me if you know
Because your man at your backdoor
Will never let you go
Well, he's a stubborn old dude
Won't want to ever let you alone
