all the heavy metal songs are good when they say never surrender. all the hip hop hits are good when they say say my name. all the balladeers ballads are good when they say oh my, my dear i'm so far away. all the patriotic modern country songs are good when they say be patriotic.

because patriotism is critical. because patriautism is critical. I get on as few airplanes as i can and when I end up on one I can never fall asleep but last night I dreamt that I was on a plane flying over the steeples of the 18th century then flying over the government buildings of the 19th century, and then today's financial institutions and then I woke up suddenly.
will the light bulbs survive? will the candy bars survive?
will the white noise of words survive a war declared on signs?
