Will we ever find the one that we were meant to love
like,
we want to be loved.
Take this flight into the sun, or did they die in a dry hump fire years before we were born,
when all the hogs devoured the dogs like lightening
after the storm.

And her lips were wet, like a rose with summer sweat
And when our eyes met, I knew I was through.

Tiptoes on cobblestones in glass stilettos it breaks my knees, when she, hides her nosebleeds in my dreams as I sleep.

And I know I'll never be the man that she thinks she really needs but it don't stop me from trying to be,
and I scream (I scream).

Oh goddamn you Miette goddamn,
I let down my guard and you lifted this heart so now it can break again.
Oh goddamn you Miette goddamn,
I let down my guard and there goes my heart straight out the window again.

Goddamn
Goddamn
Goddamn
God Bless
