My Cat Fell In The Well

Written by: Billy Moll, Dick Roberson, Terry Shand
c)1939

I woke up this morning with a feeling of despair.
I looked for my pussy
but my pussy wasn't there.

Well, well, well
My cat fell in the well
Oh pussy pussy pussy
poor kitty kitty kitty
My cat fell in the well.

I got out a ladder
and I climbed down to my pet I saw in a jiffy that my puss was soakin' wet.

Well, well, well
My cat fell in the well
Oh pussy pussy pussy poor kitty kitty kitty
My cat fell in the well

The doggone hole by the pump
Was she pushed or did she jump?
There never was a kitty half as pretty
As the pussy that fell in the well.

There never was a pussy that could quite compare with her Pretty as a picture with her long and silky fur -

Well, well, well, well
my cat fell in the well, well
Oh oh oh pussy pussy pussy
poor kitty kitty kitty
My cat fell in the well.

Tears we shed are useless

When that fatal day arrives.
Still I thought my pussy had at least a dozen lives.

Well, well, well, well
my cat fell in the well, well
poor kitty kitty kitty
My cat fell in the well.

The doggone hole by the pump
Was she pushed or did she jump?
As the pussy that fell in the well.

If you have a pussy that you wouldn't trade or sell Never let her wander or she might fall in a well.

Well, well, well
My cat fell in the well
Oh pussy pussy pussy poor kitty kitty kitty
My cat fell in the well
Fell in the - well!
