TWILIGHT ZONE / TWILIGHT TONE

MANHATTAN TRANSFER

By Alan Paul and Jay Graydon, Lyrics by Alan Paul

(SPOKEN INTRO)

With a key, you unlock a door to imagination

Beyond it is another dimension

A dimension of sight

A dimension of sound

A dimension of mind

You're moving through a land of both shadow and substance

Of things and ideas

Guiding you through this wondrous journey

Is the hypnotic sound of the twilight tone

When I hear this melody

This strange illusion takes over me

Through a tunnel of the mind

Perhaps a present or future time oh, oh

Out of nowhere comes this sound

This melody that keeps spinning 'round & 'round

Pyramidal locomotion

From a mystic unknown zone

BR

BRHearin' the twilight

BRHearin' the twilight, twilight tone

BR

BRUnpretentious girl from Memphis

BRsaw the future through her third eye

BRPeople came with skepticism

BRpicking, testing her precision, no, wo, oh, oh

BRsuddenly they heard this sound

BRThis melody that keeps spinning 'round & 'round

BRA signpost up ahead is calling

BRThrough the mystic unknown zone

BR

BRHearin' the twilight

BRTwilight swept away, feelin' the rhythm

BRHearin' the twilight

BRTwilight swept away, ba da, loo da, ba da loo da

BRHearin' the twilight
BRTwilight tone
BR
BRSubmitted for your approval. One Mr. Miller, who's about BRto take a trip into oddness and obsolescence, through a
BRzone whose boundaries are that of imagination.
BRAccompanying him on this journey is the mesmerizing
BRsound of the Twilight Tone.
BR
BROn a cold & rainy night
BROne Mister Miller had a rare flight
BRGlen was up there boppin' a rhythm
BRThen the engine stopped to listen with him
BRPlay that beat, oh, oh
BRSuddenly he heard this sound
BRThis melody that keeps spinning 'round & 'round
BRNow he resides and plays trombone
BRIn the mystic unknown zone
BR
BRHearin' the twilight (repeat many times)
BR(Hearin' the twilight)
